DESPERATE RESISTANCE OFFERED BY THE INSURGENTS.

Two Hundred Men Repulse Japanese Reg. sinrs Twice at Anping Ches, and Then Bills Away Refore the Third Attack-Harder Work than Campaigning in Chinn-More Troops Likely to Be Sent to the Island-Twenty Killed and Seventy Wounded by the Asping Explosion

VICTORIA, Aug. 14.—The steamship Empress of India arrived last night from Yokohama. There is a rumor current in Tokio that Count Inonye will become Foreign Minister in place of Viscount Mutsu. In Formosa the Japanese are said to have experienced severe service, and evidently are meeting with much stronger opposition than they encountered in China.

Among many proofs of the stubborn courses shown by the insurgents in Formesa the most remarkable was the conduct of about 200 who had their headquarters at Anping Chen, a short distance to the southeast of Tiong Lik, between Tae Beh and Sin Chun. Communication between the last two places had been threatened frequently by determined bands of insurgents, and Major Mikiw was ordered to seek out their stronghold and extirpate them. As a result of onnaissances made by him it was discovered that the enemy's position at Anping Chen consisted of two strongly built brick houses, surrounded on all sides by thick groves of bamboo. He attacked this position on July 28, but the enemy defended themselves so well, firing holes in the walls of houses, that the Japanese officer, in view of the waste of life that must result from storming the stronghold, decided to retreat and bring artillery to bear on the houses. The attack was repeated three days later. Outer works, consisting of a circle of bamboo fences with thick backing of fire-proof bricks, were taken without much difficulty, but the insurgents in the houses kept up a well-aimed fire throughout the whole day, although big holes had been blown in the walls. Japanese troops, careless of the enemy's deadly fire, approached the houses, but it seemed madness to attempt to enter through the holes in the walls as long as the defenders were able to pour bullets on all approaches. Once more the Japanese retreated. , however, before one of the gates had been blown up.

On the next day the Japanese again marched against the stronghold, but they found it entirely deserted. The houses contained many dead bodies. The Japanese loss was eleven killed and twenty wounded.

Another small body of insurgents was stationed at a place a short distance from Sin Chuh. A company of Japanese with two mountain guns was sent to attack the post on the 4th. The enemy fired from houses in villages, which it was necessary to burn down. When the insurgents retreated into their barracks a heavy fire was poured upon them from a neighboring elevation. Seventeen were shot down and the rest took to flight. With the reduction of these two places communication between Sin Chuh and Tai Peh was secured against interruption. Gov.-Gen. Viscount Kabayama is reported to have sent a note to Lin Yung Fu advising him

This despatch from the Governor General, dated at Tai Peh on July 18, was received at general headquarters on the same day:

"The condition of the enemy at Apping and its vicinity is not known with certainty. According to one report, the weather being bad, no new movement is being made by the Black Placs, who are engaged in strengthening their defence. According to another report the Custom House at Apping has been reopened under the management of rebels. A man-of-war that visited the coast off Anping reports that the flags of England and Germany were noticed flying in the foreign settlement, probably over consulates of the respective powers; that a British man-of-war was lying at anchor near the land; and that, according to information obtained from Chinese junkmen, the force of the enemy at Anping was not so large as before. There is another rumor that the enemy in the vicinity of Anping has advanced as far as Chial. It is also said that in the enemy's force, which attacked Chanch on the 10th inst., the Chinese regulars mixed with the native volunteers, and their number was greater than was expected, having been some 2,000. Considered from these circumstances it is believed that a portion of the enemy at Tainan and its vicinity may have advanced northward. At present great difficult is experienced in obtaining information of the meemborhood.

Another telegram from the Governor-General was received at general headquarters on July This despatch from the Governor General, vanced northward. At present great difficulty is experienced in obtaining information of the movements of the enemy at Anping and in the neighborhood.

Another telegram from the Governor-General was received at general headquarters on July 29. It said that, after the attack on Lung Tan Yo (Ryotanpa), on July 14. Major-Gen. Yamane stopped at that place to await the arrival of the battalion under Capt. Bojo. A scouting party was sent out toward Takehan (Takekan), but they were not able to learn anything of the whiereabouts of the battalion. On July 15 it was feared that things were critical in the direction of Tao Taz. Yuen (Toehlen), but immediate ald was impossible, because the road to the place was occurred by the enemy and a force of more than 16,000 was at Gilanza, holding a strong pesition, which must be taken before an advance could be made. On July 15, however, early in the morning the place was attacked and taken. Then, turning in the direction of Tak-chom, the corps proceeded toward Tung Tai Po, where a messenger, despatched from the battalion under Capt. Bojo, was met. He reported the critical situation of the battalion, and a forced march was male to Takebam. An attack was made from both sides, and Takeham was captured at 6 P. M. The battalion under Capt. Hojo, eabsisted for several days on rice gruel. The casualities up to the time of the last energement were five killed and twenty-five wounded in the hattalion under Capt. Hojo subsisted for several days on rice gruel. The casualities up to the time of the last energement were killed and wounded in the corps under Major-tien, Yamane. In the enemy must have been killed.

Private letters from an officer in Formosa published in Tokio hewspapers say that the obstinate resistance of the enemy continues. On July 19, at about 5 A. M., some 700 rebels attacked the About 5 A. M., some 700 rebels attacked the About 5 A. M., some 700 rebels attacked the About 5 A. twenty Chinese soldiers were killed and seventy wenned.

The Nicht Nicht says that unexpected resistance is offered by insurgents in Formusa, and the authorities are considering the advisability of itereasing the forces there. If necessary the whole of the second division will be despatched, but it is not likely that a corps d'armee will be formed of two divisions and placed under command of a Field Marshal, as there is not the necessity for planning operations on a grand scale, the insurgents having no great base of operations to be taken.

AN A. P. A. SCHOOL ROW.

Superintendent Long of St. Louis Dismisse.

After a Stormy Board Meeting. Sr. Louis, Mo., Aug. 14. - A protracted meeting of the city school directors, which closed at midnight, nearly ended in a riot. For some time opposition to Superintendent Long has been dereloping, and his resignation or removal has been demanded. A motion to adjourn last night's meeting elicited a substitute that the Superintendent be dismissed. There was an uproar, and President Brockan caded in a squad of policemen.

At the instance of President Brocken and Director Brady charges of incompetency old fogy-ism, and favoritism were made against the Su-perintendent. When these were answered the true basis of the fight was developed. Superin-tendent Long and his followers were charged with being under A. P. A. control. Eventually Superintendent Long was deposed by a vote of 11 to 9.

PARKHURST AGENTS GET WARRANTS But One Arrest Results-Was It on Attempt to Injure Capt, Eaking!

· PALES AND INC. 1997 中国中国 1997 中国 19

Vincent Majewsky, who is better known as 'Frenchy," one of the star witnesses of the Lexow committee is now one of the agents of the Parkhurst society. With several other agents of the society he appeared in Jefferson Market Court on Tuesday afternoon and applied for a number of warrants for the arrest of the keepers of alleged disorderly houses in Capt. Eakins's precinct. All of the warrants called for the arrest of one John or Jane Doe. The locality of the alleged disorderly houses was the only thing that was specified.

Magistrate Brann gave the warrants to Frenchy, and he, with his brother agents, went to Sergeant Vredenburg, who has charge of the court squad. He told the Sergeant that he had warrants for a number of disorderly houses and he wanted him to assign some of his men to help execute them. The Sergeant said he could give the services of four of the court squad. The four men assigned talked with Frenchy and his companions, and they told the policemen to meet them at certain points in Capt. Eakins's pre-cinct. The appointment was made for 9 o'clock on Tuesday night.

The policemen were on hand and so were Parkhurst's agents, among them "Angel" Dennett. No one lived in the house which was declared to be disorderly in the first warrant they tried to execute. The second and the third house seemed to be vacant, and no one answered the knocks of the agents.

The Parkhurst men appeared to be furious at this, and declared that some one connected with the police had tipped the places off.

At the fourth house they visited, which Frenchy swore was disorderly, the only person found in the place was an old colored woman. She was arrested under the direction of the Parkhurst agents. She was Mathilde Rue of 64 Great Jones street. She denied in Jefferson Market Court yesterday morning that disorderly persons frequented her house. She was held in $500 bail for trial.

persons frequented her house. She was held in $500 bail for trial.

Four of the warrants issued to the Parkhurst agents the day before were returned to Sergeant Vredenburg unsatisfied yesterday morning. When Magistrate Brann was asked if it was the custom to issue warrants to irresponsible persons, he said he had not been long enough on the bench to know what the custom was. He admitted that he seldom knew what became of a warrant after he had signed it.

It's not customary to give warrants to any one but a duly appointed officer. Where an outsider furnishes evidence on which a warrant is sued, the warrant is turned over to the head of the court squad, who assigns one of his men to execute it. The warrants which the Parkhurst agents obtained they put in their pockets, not producing them until they met the policemen in the evening. pockets, not producing them dutil the policemen in the evening.

The attempt by the Parkhurst agents to raid alleged disorderly houses in the Fitteenth precinct is said to be due to a desire to hurt Capt. Eakins, who is now awaiting a decision in his case by the Police Commissioners.

OLD FARMER BESTS A BURGLAR.

Shot in a Flerce Fight, but Russ the Burglar Out with His Own Weapon. ASBURY PARK, Aug. 14.-John F. Morris, 70 years old, a well-to-do farmer living on the Farmingda'e road, near Glendola, four miles west of Asbury Park, had an exciting encounter with a burglar last night. He was shot in the arm and beaten about the head, but outwitted the burglar and chased him out of the house with his own revolver.

Mr. Morris went to bed at his usual early hour in a room up stairs. He slept soundly until 11 o'clock, when he was awakened by a rasping noise as of some one striking a match. He turned over in bed and saw a tail man standing at his bedside. The man was dressed in black and wore a black mask over his face. He had found Mr. Morris's lantern, and the noise he made in lighting it awoke the old farmer. "Give me that money," the burglar de-

Saying this he pointed a revolver at the farmer's head.

Farmer Morris is a strong man, notwithstanding his advanced age, and he sprang out of bed at this and made a grab for the weapon. In the scuffle the revolver was discharged and the builtet entered Mr. Morris's arm. The lantern was extinguished by the shock. Then ensued a hand-to-hand struggle in the darkness.

The old man grappled with the burglar and tried to wreat the revolver from him. Another shot was fired by the masked man, but it missed the farmer. Mr. Morris finally wrenched the weapon from the grasp of his antagonist, but the two men still clinched each other.

"Give me $5 and we'll call it square," said the panilog burglar.

"Not a cent," retorted the dauntless old "Not a cent," returned farmer.

His revolver gone, the burglar beat Mr. Morris over the head with the lantern. The two men struggled several minutes, and at last Mr. Morris managed to free the hand in which he held the revolver. He turned it upon the burglar and first one shot. The burglar was not hit, but the sall of that his rame was up and turned to and fired one shot. The burglar was not hit, but he realized that his game was up and turned to flee. In the darkness he fell over a chair before reaching the door. The farmer called to his son to bring, a shorgun. While the son was groping for the gun the burglar ran down the steps. Morris fired one more shot at the baffled fuglitive, but he disappeared in the darkness. This morning Mr. Morris came to Asbury Park and deposited in the Asbury Park and Ocean Grove Bank $300 which he had been keeping in his house. He then went to a physician and had his wounds dressed. The bullet had lodged in the flesh of his upper arm. He had also been severely bruised above the eyes by the blows from the lantern, and his hands were badly cut.

JERSEY CITY JUSTICE.

When Judge Potts Pinds Out Where the Prisoner Is He Commits Him.

Tony Syzmanski, a Pole, of 616 Wayne street, Jersey City, who was once a policeman and frequently acted as court interpreter, was a prisner in Police Justice Potts's court yesterday, charged with swindling a fellow countryman out of $1,50. Syzmanski went into John Zakewski's house in a hurry on Monday and asked him for $1.50, saying that he wanted to make change for a woman. John gave him the money, expecting to set it back in a few minutes as Tony had bromised, but Tony did not return. John waited for a day, and then had Tony arrested. When Justice Fotts called for the prisoner, Tony said that the man who took the money from John had gone to Europe.

"Hasn't he, John?" he asked, turning to the complainant.

Bookmaker Walker Found Dead in the Detroit River.

AMBERSTRURG, Ontario, Aug. 14. The body of a man with a builet hole in his temple was found at the mouth of the Detroit River here last night. In his pockets were a handkerchief marked A. F. Walker, a telegram from Milwaukee to Fred Walker, Cincinnati, and a letter kee to Fred Walker, Cincinnati, and a letter dated Guelph, Gntario, July 16, signed C. Walker, evidently from the de-cased's mother. Late this afternoon the body was identified as that of Alfred Frederick Walker of Guelph, Ont., one of the best known bookmakers in the country. He arrived in Detroit last Friday from Cincinnati, and on Monday went to the Windsor races. After that nothing was seen or heard of him until his body was found in the river. His friends think it a case of suicide, as he had been acting strangely for some time.

PREPARATIONS IN CATENNE TO PUMISH THE MAPANS.

the Mapon Chief, Tempte the French Colonists to Attack Etm Again -- French Official Reports Indicate that the Insult to the Flag and the Imprisonment of Cant. Tentan Were the Work of Brastlians-The Attacking Party Was Led by a Member of the Brazilian Army.

BARBADOES, W. I., Aug. 2,-News of a disturbng character has been received here from Cayenne, the capital of French Gulans.

Since the encounter between the inhabitants of Mapa, within the contested territory between Brazil and French Guiana, and the French troops sent to effect the release of Capt. Trajan, who had been taken captive at Connant by the Mapans on May 15 last, the Mapans have been offering gross indignities to the Frenchmen in the disputed district. Meantime, with a view to avenging the killing of Capt. Lunier and his men from the war ship Bengall, the French authorities have been fitting out an expedition to the Mapan settlement. In this they have had not only the most generous assistance of the people of French Guiana, but also the cooperation of the Government at Paris. The troops in the garrison at Cayenne have been drilled and strengthened, and reënforcements are now on their way to Cayenne. Lists have been sent out by the authorities to most o the public offices, to be filled with the names of men who will volunteer to serve as auxiliaries in

The French war ships Roland and Bengali are lying in the river, awaiting the arrival of an Admiral's ship, and, on her reaching Cayenne, the three will proceed to the Mapan coast, about two days' sail from Cavenne.

The French forces will not take the Mapane by surprise. Cabral, the head man of the Mapans, and his partisans are said to be kept fully informed of the preparations at Cayenne, and they are busy rendering their own position as secure as possible. Cabral evidently has been doing his utmost to encourage the French to fight, as he has refused to allow French citizens to land on the contested territory. When they resented his interference and insisted upon their rights they have been made prisoners. He arrested four men from Cayenne, and after rights they have been made prisoners. He arrested four men from Cayenne, and after they had been consigned to their quarters as prisoners at Mapa he allowed them to communicate the facts to the French authorities at Cayenne and to make an appeal for their release to the French Government.

A despatch from Paris to the Governor of Cayenne reports that Ensign d'Escrienne of the Bengali, who was wounded severely in the engagement at Mapa, and Lieut, Destoup, who took command when Capt. Lonier had been wounded, have been nominated Chevaliers of the Legion of Honor, and medials have been awarded to eleven soldiers and sailors who distinguished themselves in the same fight.

The officer commanding the troops at Cayenne has held an inquiry into the circumstances attending the Mapan difficulty, and has prepared a report for the Government. C. Peroz, chef debattolion, who made a searching inquiry into the matter, explains in his report that the mob which arrested Capt. Trajan and hauled down the French flag at Connani was composed of twenty bandits, commanded by Luiz Bentes, who called himself a Brazilian affere. "From information received," he says, "Bentes is known as Alferez in the Brazilian army."

Peroz goes on to explain that the bandits arrived at Connani on the night of April 27, and on the next morning were seen marching from the house of José Dalons, a Brazilian flag. Trajan's mas made a prisoner and was taken to Dalons's house. When it became known that Trajan had been arrested, a tumult was raised by the French partisans. An aged man, who accompanied the bandits, gave the people to understand that should any one dare to offer resistance to the arrest of Trajan, he would be arrested forthwith and taken as a prisoner to Pars. On the following morning Trajan was taken in irons to Mapa, his family going with him.

WAS HE GATVES OR HAUSE?

Uncertainty has developed as to the individuality of the man whose apparently mutilated body was found in a swamp at 191st street and Kingsbridge road on Sunday. Until yesterday the body was supposed to be that of Henry Gayves, a peddler, at 241 East Broadway. Members of the Young Men's Benevolent Association identified the body as that of their associate Gayves. They also said that, when he disappeared, Gayyes had a gold watch and $150, and attributed his death to four play. The body was buried in Silver Lake Cemetery on Tuesday. That afternoon a woman, who said she was looking for her husband, John Hause, 30 years old, who lived at 1,606 First avenue, went to old, who lived at 1,606 First avenue, went to the Morgue. Hause disappeared three weeks ago. When the clothes which had belonged to the supposed Gayves were shown to her. Mrs. Hause identified them as being those worn by her husband. She also said he had a silver watch when he left home. A cheap silver watch was found on the body of the alleged Gayves. When found in the swamp the head was separated from the body. The police think that the man was killed by falling from a cliff near where the body was found and that the apparent mutilation was due to the body having become decomposed. They will make a further investigation, although if the man was Hause the murder theory seemingly falls through.

FOR A NEW TRAFFIC AGREEMENT. The Depew-Ingalis Committee of Presidents Will Meet Again To-day.

The Depew-Ingalls Committee of Presidents of railroads in the Trunk Line and Central Traffic Associations will meet again in the office of the Trunk Line Association this morning at 11 o'clock. President Ingalls of the Chesapeake and Ohio and "Big Four" railroad companies, who acts as Chairman in Mr. Depew's absence, arrived in the city yesterday. A large attendance of railway officials is probabie, and the meeting may last several days, It is not expected that a new agreement can be executed at this meeting, as the suggestions contemplate too radical a departure from present methods to be at once adopted. It is hoped, however, that further progress may be made toward a settlement of its main features, since all interests have seemed earnest in a desire to all interests have seemed earnest In a desire to secure better rates and to check the cutting which has cost the reads annually thousands of dollars. Mr. Ingalls said vesterday that he had carefully watched the situation this summer, and that he was convinced that all of the companies had lived up to the agreement made in June to maintain and restore rates on and after July 8.

June to maintain and restore rates on and after July 8.

Sir Charles Rivers Wilson, the new President of the Grand Trunk Railway, arrived on the Majestic yesterday, but he said that he did not expect to attend to-day's meeting. He said that he would go on to Canada, but would return to New York in September, and sail for London on Sept. 25. The rivairy hetween the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific railroads has attimes seriously interfered with the maintenance of rates between Chicago and Eastern points. Neither of them has a mile of road in the United States, and the Canadian Pacific is not a member of either of the associations. If Sir Charles Rivers Wilson can agree with his competitor, the committee of Presidents will be relieved of one great difficulty in their efforts for harmony.

TALLMAN'S CLAIM PASSED, But Commissioner Datz Did All that Language Could Do to Prevent It. The Commission which is trying to build Jersey City's new million-dollar City Hall had another meeting in Mayor Wanser's office yesterday, and once more discussed the forty leaks in the roof, the beams which were said to be smaller than the specifications required, and other interesting disclosures about the building which have been made recently. The discussion opened on the presentation of a claim of William D. Tallman for $155 for services as inspector. Commissioner Datz vigorously opposed the payment of the claim.

"That man," he said, "was cited before us to prove his competency. He admitted that there were forty leaks in the roof, but did not consider it a matter of sufficient importance to report to us. He looked on that punctured roof as did the Arkansas traveller, who said he could not repair a roof when it rained, and when it didn't rain it wasn't necessary to repair it. He made statements to the Grand Jury which reflected on us, and he didn't retract them until he was compelled to. I want him removed. It is a gross insult to us to have a subordinate attack us. By his own admission he is incompetent, and I will never vote to pay him for his alleged services." "lie made a mistake and retracted it," remarked President Pearson.

"Why did he make a mistake when he had the specifications before him?" demanded Commissioner Datz. "He didn't go before the Grand missioner Datz. He dain't go before the Grand Jury and swear that G-inch beams for the purpose of lauding us. We want a competent man."

"He would not have made a wrong statement to the Grand Jury if he had had the proper details," said President Pearson, looking significantly at Architect L. H. Broome.

Destination of the Old War Monitors, Washington, Aug. 14. The Navy Department has determined to order a survey on the cruiser Atlanta, on her arrival at New York from Key West, to determine her actual condition, which is believed to be very bad. The Atlanta, which has been at Key West since Presidentials, which ceremony has been delayed out of the late war with China. dent Cleveland issued his neutrality proclamation on June 12 with reference to the rebellion in Cuba, will be relieved by the Cincinnati to-morrow and at once come North. It is the determination of the department to have the Atlanta repaired as rapidly as possible, and when this shall have been done to attach her to the strategic squadron now off Newport and give her officers and men the benefit of squadron and tactical practice.

The boilers and machinery of three of six of the old war monitors, now at Norfolk, Va., preparatory to being taken to League Island and New York, are in such bad condition that the Navy Department has concluded that the expense will be too great to repair their motive power for the comparatively short journey tive power for the comparatively short journey North. The repairs to engines and boilers were ordered merely as a precautionary measure in the event that they might part tow with the tugs which will conduct them from Norfolk. Two years ago during a terrible storm off Cape Hatteras, where the original monitor went down, the old monitor Nantucket became separated from the vessel which was towing her, and it was only because of the fact that the Nantucket had steam up that she was saved. The three monitors whose propeiling power is not worth repairing will be attached to the tow, and those on beard will be obliged to take their chances in the event of a storm. The Navy Department to-day ordered thief fact that the was town to be and those on beard will be obliged to take their chances in the event of a storm. The Navy Department to-day ordered the fact that the monitors, which will be divided between two convoys. When the first convoy reaches its destination he will return to Norfolk by rail and take charge of the second. Aside from the deterioration of their machinery the monitors, despite their many years in the mind of the James River at Richmond, are in fair condition, and may be put into useful service when they reach their destination.

THE COLLAPSED BUILDING. EXPERTS DIFFER AS TO WHAT

One Theory Is that the Pillars Were Made of Rotten Iron, and that When an Upper One Guve Way the Lower Columns Couldn't Suntain the Added Weight,

Yesterday was a field day for experts at the collapsed building at West Broadway and West Third street. At noon Contractor Gailigan announced that every foot of the mass of débris had been overhauled and that there were no more bodies to be found. The last body taken out was that of Pietro Morino, and it made the total number of victims of the disaster fifteen, The material taken from the ruins filled both streets. Mr. Ireland, the owner of the building, had been notified to clear the streets, but as he had not begun to do so yesterday afternoon, the officers of the Fire Department directed Contractor Galligan to set his men at this work after they had completed their operations inside. To-day both streets will be opened to traffic again. During the afternoon, in addition to the build-

FETELW, MAGUIRE, When they had finished there were nearly as many different theories as there were experts. Others said that the law had been satisfied, but that in building on loamy or sandy foundations the legal requirements were not strict enough. Many held to the theory early advanced, that the whole thing was due to the overloading of the upper floors with building material.

One well-known builder, who has been engaged in orecting buildings for thirty years, called at the building yesterday, and, after maxing an inspection, said:

"The persons who are looking for the cause of this accident in the foundations are making a mistake in my opinion. I have examined these broken piliers, and I find that they are honeycombed with blow holes. It is what I should call worm-enten or "rotten" from and does not appear to be of sufficient strength to support the weight that would naturally come upon it. My belief is that one of the upper columns gave way, and that the weight thus precipitated upon those below it carried down every floor, and drove the ground piliar through its foundations."

A question considerably discussed about the building yesteriay, and on which the building inspectors were figuring, was whether the whole structure would have to be torn down and rebuilt or whether it would be possible to repair the building as it stands. Contractor Gailigan was of the opinion that it would not be necessary to tear down the building, in spite of the discovery that the foundation plates of the columns on each side of the central support were cracked. An attempt was made to dig through to the foundation of the fourth column which stands near the Third street wall, but the worken had not reached it last night.

This afternoon there will be another gathering of experts, and the plans and drawings which are to be laid before the Coroner's lury. ing of experts, and the plans and drawings which are to be laid before the Coroner's jury and to form part of Superintendent Constable' report will be completed.
